

Harness Racing Champion Fueled by KER Feed

The gradual rise of Jill Smolenski and One Dream to household-name status among members of the Australian harness racing fraternity has been a humbling experience. She climbed from the bottom of the industry, performing the drudgery required in the formative years, to breed and own a champion that racing fans have taken to their hearts.

After studying at Marcus Oldham College in Victoria, Australia and graduating with distinction, Jill still yearned for daily interaction with horses. Her educational qualifications eventually helped her win positions at several well-known racing establishments including Wai Eyre Farm and Studholme Park Stud. She became immersed in the harness-racing industry by working at these prominent farms. Years of dedication led her to breed the filly of her dreams, One Dream.

One Dream has been a force to reckon with during the past two racing seasons. She was the unanimous winner of the coveted New Zealand Two-Year-Old Pacing Filly of the Year award last season, and continued her championship streak this year by winning the New Zealand Three-Year-Old Pacing Filly of the Year and the New Zealand Mare or Filly of the Year. Out of 20 starts, her record includes 15 wins, four seconds, and one third-place finish.

Jill is quick to point out that her racing phenomenon was fed and reared on respected NRM feed product Assett from the very outset. She and her husband Dennis have been loyal NRM clients for many years and have fittingly reaped their due reward. NRM is the only KER Team Member located in New Zealand.

Little did Jill imagine, not even in her wildest dreams, that her filly would scale such exalted heights on the racetrack. It is the rags to riches story that lures thousands of horse lovers to racing.
